About the Artist/Designer

Ri Anderson is an American born artist based in San Miguel de Allende, Mexico since 2005 where she lives with her two daughters. She was born in Boston MA and holds a Master of Fine Arts with a concentration in photography from Massachusetts College of Art. Her fine artwork is exhibited and collected internationally.

As a designer, Anderson's elaborate patterns derive from fantastical forms she finds through her camera and elaborates in digital drawing programs. All of her patterns are "digitally embroidered" from photographs and scans of objects ranging from her daughters' hair and births to flowers, feathers, cacti, and cityscapes.

Ri believes in surrounding herself with things that are filled with beauty and personal meaning. For this reason she is driven to transform her intricate surface designs into the finest wearable creations. She also creates designs for the home.

Anderson is continually creating new surface designs as well as new wearable creations. She is happy to work with you to customize both a textile pattern as well as a wearable creation based on your preferences and specifications.
